Abstract:

OnTime is an online web application that allows students to be able to input their classes into their calendar. When the student is adding a class to the calendar, they can put in other information about their classes besides the class name. Other information they can provide includes the time, the teacher or professor they have, the number of credits that class is worth, the location of their class, and any possible additional criteria. We want students who are struggling with time management to have an application to aid them with managing their heavy workload more efficiently. With OnTime, our goal is to have students have the ability to work smarter not harder so they can enjoy other activities that are important to them such as sports, clubs, work, leisure time, or any other things that are important to students.
